Additionally, Customer acknowledges that obtaining approval of an insurance claim from a carrier involves time and expense and provides value to the Customer. Chimney Leaks & Water Repellant

There are many reasons for chimney leaks, and it is not always possible to identify the specific reason for the leak. Even when an estimator sees an obvious reason for a leak, there can also be factors that contribute to the leak which are not obvious and will only become clear once the obvious repair is made. Because of this we do not offer any guarantee that the leak will be resolved, however each step taken to repair a leaking chimney will be warrantied as to materials and workmanship. The following are the most common reasons for leaks around chimneys:

- Poor joint between the masonry and counterflashing (the part of the flashing that is cut into the masonry joint)
- Flaws in the roofing material above or adjacent to the chimney
- Flashing problems
- Very porous bricks
- Problems with an adjacent gutter
- Condensation from a furnace, hot water tank, vent pipe, etc. which are vented through the chimney
- Capillary action (the tendency of a liquid to adhere to a solid surface)
- Faults in the crown of the chimney
- Gaps between the flue liner and the chimney
- Missing mortar
- Ice damming
