Linsey, thanks for taking my call earlier. I look forward to chatting with you one on one on Jan. 7 at 6:00 pm and if something comes up, just let me know and you and I can get a new date on the calendar. I know you and I have tried to get together a few times without success so I look forward to chatting with you.

Thanks for your email to City Council.

Your comment to the Bexley
City
Council:: I would like to get the opportunity to talk to council regarding enforcing code. Because of the current inability to enforce codes, we were sued by a neighbor for A LOT of money. Because the city can't enforce the code, we were left on our own. I don't even blame the guy that sued us. The city didn't do their job. The mayor doesn't read his emails and acted supportive until we were done. I've met with some of you about this, but we were advised to sue the city. That's not my intent, I'm moving no matter what. Matt Klingler has been helpful, but the mayor just talks over him and corrects him. Who am I supposed to listen to if the mayor won't listen and quite literally told me it wasn't his problem. We are beyond frustrated and very worried about the resale of our home. We are just ready to move but I'm worried about the people that buy our home. Thanks for any help you can provide.
